

Data protection

We will process your personal data fairly and lawfully. The processing will be carried out with electronic and automated means. We will use your personal data only for market research to improve our Website and our product range, and keep you informed about our market activities. The data is stored and processed by Swarovski and other Swarovski Group member companies in several countries, particularly at the company headquarters in Switzerland, Austria and Liechtenstein.

By registering any information with us, you consent to the possibility of being contacted directly by us either by phone or electronic message without your prior request. By registering with us, you also expressly consent to such use of your personal data. You cannot register without giving this consent. You can however use those parts of our Website that do not require registration. You can revoke your consent to the storage and the processing of your data at any time by contacting our customer support, with effect for the future.
